2019 International Grant Program
Program Guidelines

Cultivating Empathy Through Learning from Our Neighbors
Practitioners' Exchange on Common Issues in Asia

Application Period April 15 to June 8, 2019 (23:59 JST)

THE TOYOTA FOUNDATION

Grant policy of the Toyota Foundation

The Toyota Foundation provides grants to the project fulfilling the following points.

1. Great significance for society
2. Anticipating internal and external issues
3. Future-oriented
4. Sustainable and developable
5. Expected to have a ripple effect

Background

In 2019, the International Grant Program of the Toyota Foundation continues the fifth year of its program “Cultivating Empathy Through Learning from Our Neighbors: Practitioners’ Exchange on Common Issues in Asia”, focusing on countries in East and Southeast Asia.

The grant program focuses on deepening mutual understanding and knowledge-sharing among people on the ground in target countries who are finding solutions to shared issues. Through promoting direct interaction among key players, the grant program aims to survey and analyze situations in target countries, obtain new perspectives, and expand the potential of future generations.

Changes from the last fiscal year

The following two changes are for the fiscal 2019 International Grant Program. Keep them in mind when submitting an application.

1. Thematic area changed

● Priority: Multicultural Inclusion in Communities

Multicultural Inclusion in Communities is one of the thematic areas and a priority area of the International Grant Program.

As a new, special issue, the Toyota Foundation is establishing a grant program concerning the acceptance of foreign workers (official name and details will be announced later) in fiscal year 2019. Up to now, the International Grant Program has nurtured interaction and mutual learning about multicultural inclusion and migration in Asia. By continuously deepening these efforts, we expect multiple effects for both programs.

● Grants in Open Field Continue

While focusing on the above, our grants in the Open Field will continue. We expect applications for projects that fulfill the abovementioned five points of the Grant policy of the Toyota Foundation and are designed to solve common issues in Asia by taking the approach of practitioners' exchange and mutual learning, which the International Grant Program promotes. Grants in the Open Field should contribute to the identification and spread of information about issues that have yet to emerge, or that are not well recognized, and they are also expected to lead the Toyota Foundation to thematic areas on which it will focus in the future.

2. Additional qualification: Contact address in Japan

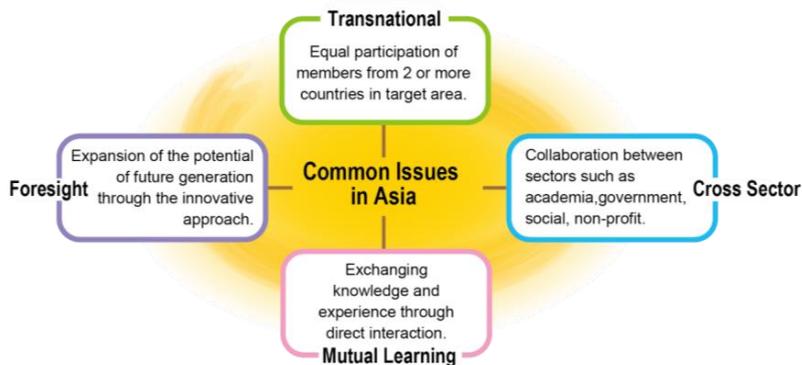

Until fiscal 2018, no restrictions were imposed on project representatives in terms of, for example, where they live. From fiscal 2019, the project representative is required to have a contact address in Japan. This is aimed at representatives of grant-receiving projects (grantees) to closely communicate with the Toyota Foundation at different stages, such as before, during and after the grant.

Expectation for Projects: Four elements

Proposals are expected to include the four elements indicated below.

- Transnational: Equal participation of members from 2 or more countries in target area.
- Cross Sector: Collaboration between sectors such as academia, government, social, non-profit, etc.
- Mutual Learning: Exchanging knowledge and experience through direct interaction.
- Foresight: Expansion of the potential of future generation through the innovative approach.

With multinational teams comprised of participants from diverse backgrounds, projects can avoid conventional linear relationships, such as “supporter and supported” or “instructor and trainee,” and instead form cooperative and creative alliances that consider, act on, and construct solutions to shared issues. The grant program anticipates that these partnerships, fulfilling the 5 points of the Toyota Foundation’s grant policy, which extend beyond such factors as nationality, age, and organizational affiliation, will produce significant social change through fostering a process of mutual learning.

Framework of the Program

Target Countries and Regions

The target countries and regions of this program are listed below.

East Asia	Japan, China, Hong Kong, Macau, Mongolia, South Korea, Taiwan.
Southeast Asia	Brunei, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Myanmar, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, Timor-Leste, and Vietnam.

As the aim of this grant is to share knowledge and deepen mutual understanding, projects must be conducted in two or more of the target countries. Applicants should be aware that proposals including only one target country will not be considered. In addition to two or more target countries, proposals may also include additional countries not specified above.

Qualifications for Application

Applicants, including the project representative and members, must be:

- Individuals in multiple target countries with practical experience in such areas as conducting research, carrying out activities, producing creative works, and making policy proposals.
- A team or broad network extending to multiple target countries that is composed of members such as practitioners, project participants, researchers, creators, policy makers, and journalists and other media representatives.
- Capable of carrying out a project with a diverse network of participants across multiple target countries.
- Also, the project representative must have a contact address in Japan.

Expected Activity and Output

[Before the project to the first half]

Identify issues and conduct a review by surveying and analyzing the situation in target countries

If there are advanced examples or previous studies, it is expected that the advantages, disadvantages, required improvements and future tasks have been identified and the identification would be utilized in the project. If the project is unprecedented, its application should include an explanation about the reason for the absence of similar efforts in the past. Also, it should explain the significance for society if the project is completed.

[During the project]

Exchange and mutual learning: Engage in practical activities for solving the issues through mutual learning, which includes direct exchange between members from two or more countries and sectors.

Diverse activities from flexible ideas are welcomed and may include, for example, fieldworks in target countries or regions, workshops, symposiums and project debriefings. When implementing interactions and mutual learning, a project should be designed for better exchanges in terms of aspects such as the choice of destinations for visits and participants, preparation prior to mutual visits, events held during the exchanges, post-visit review and dissemination of information.

[During the project and the second half]

Spread information about its results and findings: Create deliverables, such as policy recommendations based on the above, videos, websites, teaching materials and exhibits, and spread them throughout society.

The spread of information about the results should be based on comprehensive consideration of its purpose, destination and appropriateness, ideas for outreach and other related issues.

Even if the deliverables cannot be completed within the project period, the project would be positively evaluated if it is expected to have a considerable social impact based on its long-term prospects.

[Second half of the project and afterward]

Prospects: Potential for being spread over other countries and regions

It is expected that the knowledge obtained and network of people developed through exchanges and mutual learning are spread and developed across other regions and countries in different forms during the grant period or in the near future. Also, the knowledge and network are expected to exert an impact on society in many regions, irrespective of whether the regions are covered in the project.

Project Period

One-year projects will run from November 1, 2019 to October 31, 2020, and two-year projects from November 1, 2019 to October 31, 2021.

Total Amount of Grants

70 million yen (approx. USD 670,000)

*For reference, 11 projects were approved out of 242 applications in 2018. For more details, please see the comments by Selection Committee Chair.

Maximum Funding per Project

Project Period	Maximum Funding
One-year	JPY 5,000,000
Two-year	JPY 10,000,000

Budget feasibility is an important factor in selection, and therefore project budgets are expected to fall within the maximum funding limit.

What can be budgeted are following: Personnel cost including honoraria and is limited to 30% of the total budget, Travel, Communication, Meetings including workshops, symposiums, and other events, Production of output materials, including printing, editing, and video or website production.

What cannot be budgeted are following: Any project costs not applicable to the program framework, Entertainment expenses, Overhead and other indirect costs

Thematic Areas

Based on the background (see P.1), the program provides grants to projects that identify common issues in target countries (see P.2) in three thematic areas.

Thematic Areas

A. Multicultural Inclusion in Communities

B. Open Field

A. Multicultural Inclusion in Communities

Japan and countries in Asia are struggling against serious demographic challenges. The speed at which people and information now travel mean societies are increasingly comprised of people from widely divergent backgrounds.

Against this backdrop, foreigners, their families and other people with foreign roots are not the recipients of support—they support local communities with their neighbors whether they are foreigners or not.

The efforts expected in this area may, for the materialization of Multicultural Inclusion in Communities, help address issues in many different places and situations in society, such as households, local communities, schools and workplaces or improve related situations. As an approach to this, the project is expected to give its participants with different backgrounds and knowledge opportunities to interact and mutually learn by understanding, studying and analyzing issues and based on the characteristics of the places. We expect future-oriented applications that would, based on the above approach and understanding of similarities and differences, contribute to the creation of systems for a better future through the communication of knowledge and insights, mutual acquisition of new perspectives and the spread of learning.

B. Open Field

The International Grant Program welcomes proposals addressing issues that fall outside or straddle the scope of the thematic area outlined above. This has significance not only to current social issues, but will greatly contribute to identifying emergent issues before their effects become readily apparent.

Proposals are expected to take up newly emerging issues faced in two or more target countries in East and Southeast Asia, living up the 5 Foundation's grant policy, and the members are encouraged to take risks and have free mindsets to work toward solving the issues.

Submitting Application

Application Period

From April 15 until June 8, 2019, 23:59, Japan Standard Time.

Note: We will not respond to any inquiries regarding application process after June 7, 2019, 17:00, Japan Standard Time.

Steps for Submission

Applicants are expected to register and download the grant program application form via the Toyota Foundation website (<https://www.toyotafound.or.jp/english/international/2019/>), fill in the relevant areas, and submit it by uploading it to the website.

Prior Consultation (not compulsory)

Applicants can consult with the program officers of the Toyota Foundation in advance of applying. When consulting with the program officers, potential applicants must submit a copy of the “Concept Note” of no more than two pages length, summarizing i) tentative project title, ii) the project outline, iii) project members and related organizations, iv) past activities; and v) the project budget.

Note: prior consultation must be held before May 27, 2019.

Briefing Session (not compulsory)

Briefing session in Japanese would be held at the Toyota Foundation during the application period. The details will be updated on the website.

Notes

Applicants must choose either English or Japanese for applying. This means if registered from the English page of our website, you must use English Application Form. Likewise, if registered from the Japanese page, you must use Japanese Application Form. Please do not change languages in the midst of application process. When failed to follow this instruction, you may not be able to submit (upload) application forms via the web system.

Applications must be submitted before the deadline. Please be aware that as the deadline approaches traffic on the Toyota Foundation website is likely to intensify, potentially making it difficult to upload applications. For this reason, applicants are asked to submit applications as early as possible. The Toyota Foundation will not take any responsibilities for failure to upload application forms.

Applicants must only use the space provided and submit the form without any page extension.

Also, no additional documents should be included with or attached to the application. Please carefully follow the instructions provided on the Toyota Foundation website or in these guidelines when submitting your application. Applications cannot be replaced or re-submitted. Submitted applications will not be returned.

If any aspect of an application is found to be untrue or misleading, the application will be automatically rejected. In a case where such a proposal has been approved, the grant will be cancelled.

The Toyota Foundation will not respond to inquiries regarding the selection process.

Selection Process

Selection Committee

Final selection will be made in late September 2019 at the meeting of the Toyota Foundation's Board of Directors from among the candidates presented by the Selection Committee comprised of external experts and chaired by Dr. Shigeto Sonoda, Institute for advanced Studies on Asia Professor of Sociology.

The Selection Committee will review proposals in light of such factors as relevance, members, consistency, impact, feasibility, and budget.

Contact to the Applicants during the Selection Period

As part of the selection process, the Selection Committee may contact applicants to obtain additional information.

The Selection Committee may suggest proposals be modified with regard to method, budget, or output.

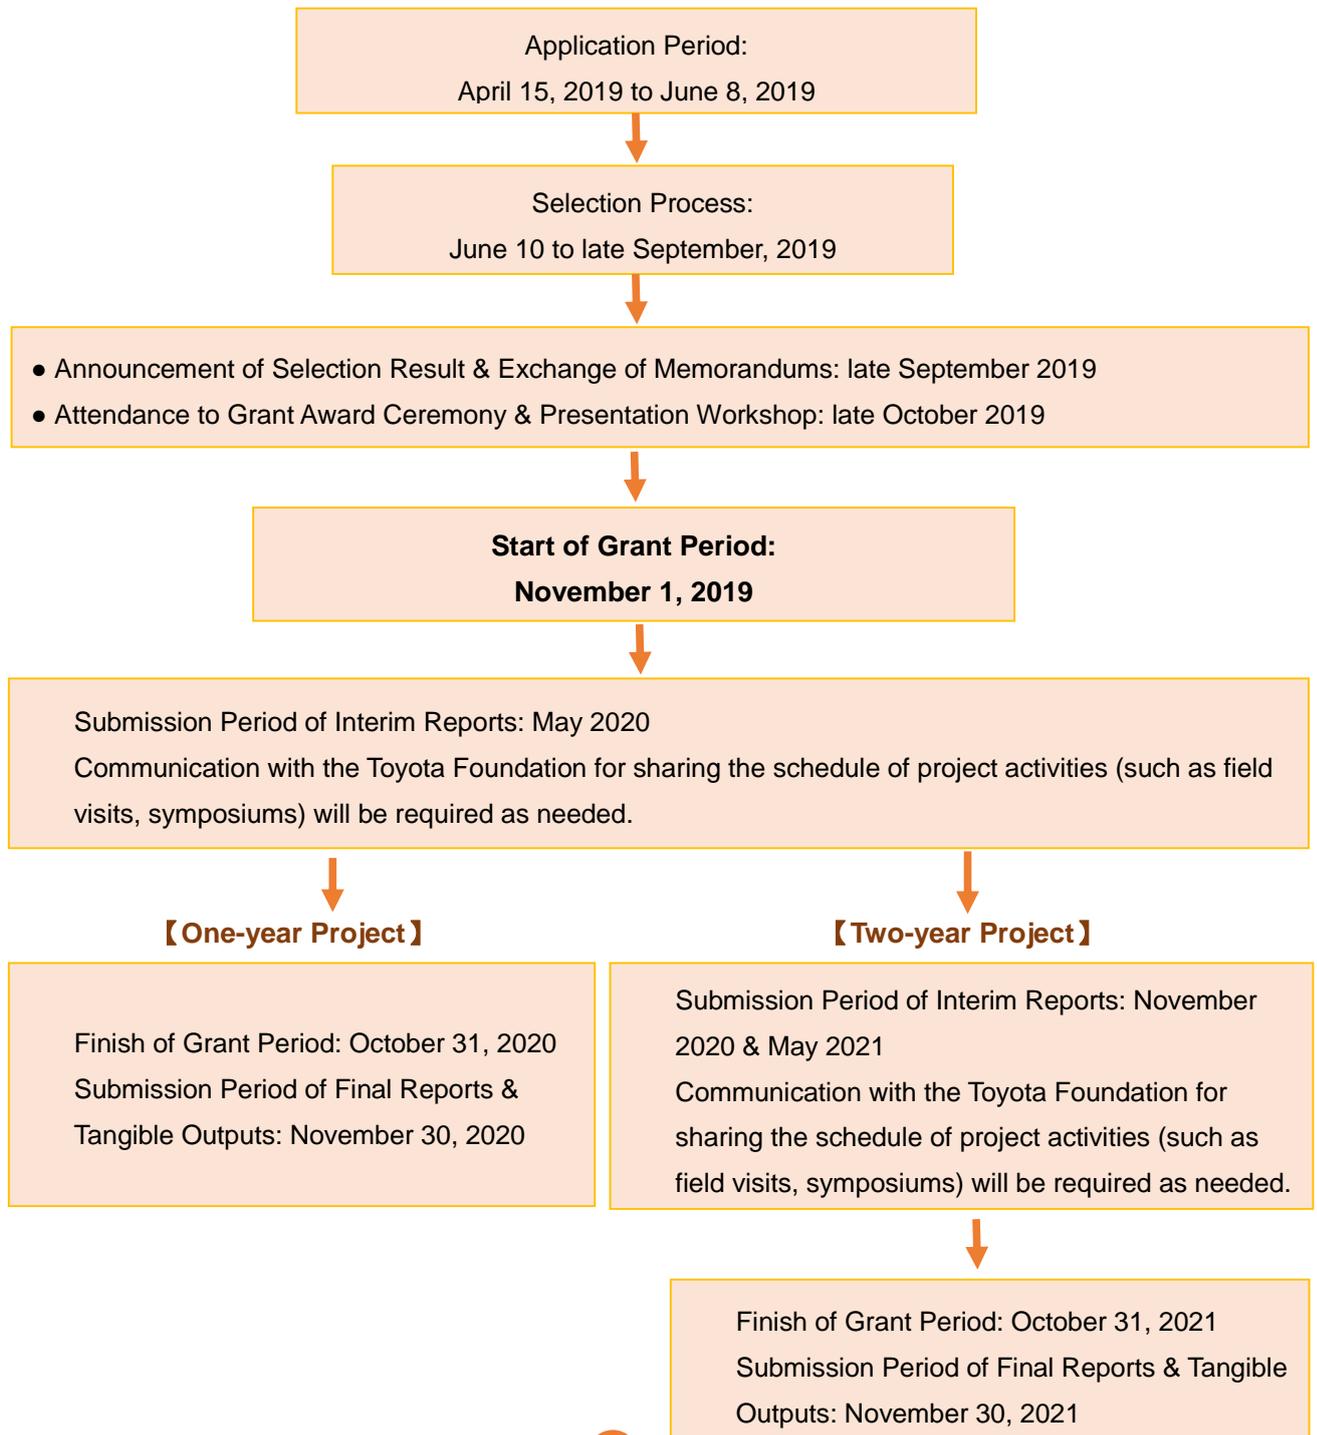

Announcement of the Result

Applicants will be informed of selection results via email by the end of September 2019, following the Board of Directors meeting. The Toyota Foundation will not respond to inquiries regarding the selection process.

Grantee's Responsibilities (Communicating with the Toyota Foundation)

The representatives are expected to keep in touch with the staff members of the Toyota Foundation during the grant period in order to update the information about the on-going projects.

Overall schedule of the grant program is indicated below.

FAQ

Project Content

Q. Can the grant be used toward activities in only one target country? Do projects need to cover more than one target country?

A. Each project applying for the 2019 International Grant Program must cover a minimum of two target countries. Single-country projects will not be considered.

Q. Can non-target countries be included in the project?

A. Yes, they can. But only in addition to two or more target countries.

Q. Is there a set format for presenting tangible output? Who are the targets of tangible output?

A. No, there is no set format. Program participants are expected to plan and carry out projects so as to optimize impact. This includes the creation and dissemination of tangible output. A variety of methods can be used to achieve this, including making policy proposals to government officials or other policy makers, staging photography exhibits or movie viewings in local communities, or disseminating information via social media.

Q. Will a project be considered if its purpose is only to produce a tangible output?

A. No, every project is required to have surveys and analyses of social issues and conduct activities aimed at solving them. Additionally, it is strongly recommended that projects actively disseminate findings as well as tangible output over the period of the grant program.

Q. Can projects apply the findings and knowledge gained from previous activities when producing tangible output?

A. Yes, but the grant program encourages projects to produce tangible output based on original findings and knowledge.

Applying Grant Funds

Q. Does the grant cover personnel costs?

A. Yes, it may cover personnel costs pertaining to the project, but only in cases where the institution is unable to shoulder such costs.

Q. Does the grant cover overhead and administrative expenses?

A. No, it will not cover any overhead and administrative expenses.

Grant Period and Support

Q. Is there a set period for the grant program?

A. Projects chosen to receive grants will begin in November 2019, and will run for one or two years, depending on the type of grant, with grant amounts differing accordingly.

Q. Does the grant program support charitable works, developmental projects, or scholarships?

A. No. The grant does not support these fields.

Q. Does the grant support single-person projects?

A. No. The grant only supports multi-member projects.

Q. Does the grant support the activities of a single institution?

A. Yes, but the institution must have project members who are based in each applicable target country. Grant applicants are expected to form a diverse team comprising experts from different fields and backgrounds. The team members can include local residents, NPOs, researchers, creators, journalists and other media representatives, and government officials in target countries. Projects are expected to give back to society by applying findings through a variety of methods.

Application

Q. I am unable to apply via the Toyota Foundation website and would like to send my application by mail or email.

A. We only accept applications via our website. We will not accept any applications sent by mail, email, facsimile, or other means. Please upload applications via the Toyota Foundation website during the application period prior to the deadline. Late submissions will not be accepted for any reason.
